

Radio Controlled Models

IMPORTANT NOTES

We hope you will have many hours of pleasure operating your radio controlled model. These notes will help you to get the best performance from your model car.

We have assembled your model for you, so you can use it with the minimum delay. Your model has been tested carefully before despatch, and should be in proper working order when you receive it. However, please read these notes and the instructions contained in the boxes before you attempt to use your model.

These model cars are VERY fast – unless you are familiar with this type of radio controlled model, plenty of care and practice is needed to avoid accidental damage to the body and chassis before you become experienced with the controls.

Replacement parts and spare wheels/tyres etc. can be ordered direct from the supplier
Mardave R/C Racing, 7 Heanor Street, Leicester, LE1 4DB. Tel / Fax 0116 262 4701.

WE REGRET THAT VIKING EXPRESS STAFF ARE NOT TRAINED TO HANDLE ANY QUERIES IN CONNECTION WITH THIS MODEL.

Batteries

1. The radio control unit must be fitted with 8 x AA batteries before it can be used.
2. Charge the model's in-built battery from a 12 volt supply before each use.
3. You must connect the battery terminals on the chassis before you can use the model.
4. Never charge the battery for more than 25 minutes.
5. Disconnect the model's battery terminals when not in use (very important).

Radio Control Unit and Operation

1. Adjustments to centralise the steering or tracking (if necessary) are best carried out using the knurled knob on the radio control unit. In case of difficulty, follow the assembly instructions.
2. Do not move the knurled knob to adjust the speed control unless absolutely necessary – it has been carefully adjusted to suit your particular model.
3. Each model comes with a separate and distinct radio channel/frequency under which it operates. This is identified by a coloured label with number on the box, and by coloured tags located on the control unit and the receiver mounted in the chassis under the red aerial antenna. These colours should all match.
4. If you use your model in company with other model users, check you are not using the same radio channels as you may lose control of your vehicle through interference from another radio control unit.

Removing Body from Chassis

The mechanism for releasing the body from the chassis is located under the 'bonnet'. It can be accessed from underneath the model at the front of the chassis. Push the black lever up to release the catch holding the body in place.

Fitting Body to Chassis (Mini)

Turn the body upside down, locate the pin on the rear of the body in the corresponding slot on the chassis, carefully twist the body so that it is the 'right' way round and lower it over the chassis until the front bar 'clicks' FIRMLY into place.

Fitting Body to Chassis (Rebel)

Locate the pin on the rear of the chassis in the corresponding slot on the body and lower the body over the chassis until the front bar 'clicks' FIRMLY into place.
